History

Circle the verbs in this passage

The Ancient Egyptians believed that people came back to life after they died. They believed that, upon death, the person was judged by the gods and goddesses in the Hall of Judgement. In this room, the deceased's heart would be weighed against the Feather of Truth. If the heart was heavier than the Feather of Truth, the deceased would not be allowed in the afterlife. The scribe god Thoth recorded the final decision.

If the person was permitted to enter into the afterlife, they would have lived in a place called the Field of Reeds. Here everything looked much like normal life, except it was perfect.

Using the circled verbs from above, complete the table below.
